Moves America Forward
Is Image Important?

2017 was a banner year for trucking visibility, and as our industry continues to assert itself into the public conversation, we need positive and fair coverage more than ever before. The trucking industry is slowly gaining traction in our pursuit for more respect from the media, policymakers and the general public. We still see unfair one-sided soundbites, stories about killer trucks and misguided legislative and regulatory efforts that cripple our industry and put a drag on the economy. In 2018, we want more leaders wearing I Love Trucks buttons and fewer leaders using trucks as negative political talking points.

If you believe any of those statements are true, you’re not alone. That is why it is so important to improve the way people view our essential and strong industry.

At ATA, America’s Road Team speaks to members of the media in order to see more fair and balanced stories about trucking, while the Share the Road highway safety program teaches young drivers safety tips and shows students a truck driver’s perspective from the cab of a truck. National Truck Driver Appreciation Week gives our industry an opportunity to come together in support of the nation’s truck drivers and the National Truck Driving Championships give us a chance to celebrate the achievements of our drivers.

The industry wide image movement, Trucking Moves America Forward, is uniting the industry to heighten trucking’s visibility, economic necessity and vibrancy, as well as build pride among the industry’s 7.4 million workers, including the 3.5 million professional truck drivers. Research shows that TMAF is generating positive results and that when members of the general public have a friend in the trucking industry, they’re more likely to appreciate the hard work truck drivers and trucking professionals do each day.

So, how are you bringing new friends to the industry?

The Mike Russell Trucking Image Award celebrates companies, organizations and individuals who creatively generate positive awareness of the trucking industry. Without the support of these leaders, the benefits of an improved image of the trucking industry would not be possible.
