

Angela Tillery
Managing Director of Learning & Development and Organizational Effectiveness
FedEx Freight

Angela is responsible for leading the execution of learning and talent development strategies to achieve business results. This includes the delivery of effective design, development and implementation of training/education solutions. Angela has over 18 years of experience with the FedEx enterprise with specialties in sales, adult learning theory, instructional design, facilitation, program authoring, project management, process improvement and change management. She's also responsible for leading HR models for employee engagement, succession planning, performance management, and employee hiring selection practices.

Angela holds a bachelor's in communications from the University of Illinois Champaign-Urbana and a master's in organizational leadership from Colorado State University Global Campus. Angela is a Quality Driven Management Expert certified through American Society of Quality and holds certifications from the Association of Change Management Professionals (CCMP), the Acuity Institute: Change Management Professional and Vanderbilt University: Leading Change. Angela's vision is to offer development experiences that promote employee engagement for long term organizational success.

Angela stays active in the community with a number of organizations, loves to travel, read and hang out with the family.